

Mikhael,

The attack on Sir Gul has the Count in an uproar. He has ordered Titus out of Birdsong and to join with those looking for the attackers. Not even the Night Swan has caused such a problem so quickly. They are out for blood. I am going with Titus and we will leave within the hour. I do not know when we shall return to the palace.

I will send this missive with one of your companion's followers.

Yours,

Carrod